

JUDGE JUDY'S NAPLES

When she's not taping America's top-rated daytime television show in Los Angeles, Judge Judy—a.k.a. Judy Sheindlin—lives in Naples with her husband, Jerry. What impresses the judge most about the southwestern Florida city are the beaches. "They rival any in the world, with absolutely spectacular sunsets," she says.

➔ EAT Judge Sheindlin's staple is Amore Ristorante (4681 Ninth St. N.; 239/643-2201; dinner for two $75), where an intimate Mediterranean-inspired dining room (Tuscan-orange walls and paintings of the Italian countryside) resembles a trattoria in Italy. On the menu? Traditional dishes such as risotto with mushrooms and black truffles. "The food here is consistently good and fresh," she says.

PAMPER The spa at the beachfront Ritz Carlton, Naples (280 Vanderbilt Beach Rd.; 239/598-3300; ritzcarlton.com; treatments from $150) is what Sheindlin calls "a great oasis." It's one of the biggest in Naples (51,000 square feet), with treatments ranging from hot-stone massages to aromatherapy.

SHOP For a little retail therapy, Sheindlin loves the Waterside Shops (5415 Tamiami Trail N.; 239/598-1605), a stretch that includes high-end brands such as Kate Spade and Cartier, along with the lesser-known boutiques along Third Street South (thirdstreetsouth.com).

DO There are, of course, the beaches—Delnor-Wiggins Pass State Park is one of the most scenic. At night, you'll find her at the Philharmonic Center for the Arts (5833 Pelican Bay Blvd.; 800/597-1900; thephil.org)—this month the Holiday Pops are on tap. There are also downtown's art venues, including the Shaw Gallery (761 Fifth Ave. S.; 239/261-7828; shawgallery.com), which showcases works by Brazilian painter Shirley Brasil, and the Weatherburn Gallery (452 Bayfront Place; 239/263-8008; weatherburn.com), with landscape paintings by David Smith.
